Jeffrey Swann got a rave review in The New Yorker Magazine. “Alongside Bach’s Goldberg Variations, Beethoven’s Diabelli Variations are one of the twin peaks of the classical keyboard repertory. ...Friday night at Hunter College’s Kaye Playhouse, as part of the International Keyboard Institute and Festival, I saw the pianist Jeffrey Swann deliver a thrilling performance that emphasized the composition’s contrasting extremes – the comedy was uproarious, the silences were celestial, the speed was reckless, the intricacy was ecstatic.” Richard Brody, July 24, 2017.

In addition to the Diabelli Variations, he will play the Spinning Song from Wagner’s “Flying Dutchman” and a selection from Wagner’s Ring.

Concert tickets are $15 (pay ahead or at the door)

FREE for WSWDC 2018 Members and for Students

The after concert dinner at Café Deluxe is $28 per person, pre-paid by September 15. Dinner includes a choice of soup or salad and one of three entrée choices, all taxes and gratuity. Wine, beer and liquor can be purchased at the cash bar, a special offer of wine by the bottle at $30 available.

Bring as many guests as you want, but you must let us know.
